

Oscar Nominees Who Look 10 Years Younger Than They Are

Discover the celebrity beauty secrets that keep these A-listers looking youthful

By Marlisce Cepeda

Daniel Day-Lewis

Another Lincoln cast member who looks years younger is the movie's star, who's up for Best Actor for his portrayal of Abraham Lincoln. Day-Lewis could make history for winning the honor three times, his first trophy being for 1989's My Left Foot. Since then, the 55-year-old English thespian has maintained a healthy diet, but his high cheekbones and thin stature really shave years off his appearance, says Gary Goldenberg, MD, Assistant Professor of Dermatology and Pathology at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City.

His bright complexion also hints that daily moisturizer with SPF 15 is part of his regimen. Elizabeth Tanzi, MD, co-founder of the Washington Institute of Dermatologic Laser Surgery, suspects he's used laser treatments to stimulate collagen and remove age spots too.

Jacki Weaver

The Australian Academy Award nominee may be relatively new to American moviegoers, but she's now on everyone's radar, thanks to her superb supporting role in Silver Linings Playbook. What's (almost) more impressive than her unforgettable performance? The fact she's 66! Dr. Goldenberg says her radiant skin is likely connected to a moisturizing routine rich in Vitamin E, with a water-based cream in the morning and an oil-based moisturizer and multi-vitamin skin serum at night. Dr. Goldenberg also suspects Weaver uses Botox or fillers. Whatever her secret, it's definitely working!

Denzel Washington

Whether he's playing the coach from Remember the Titans or a pilot in Flight, for which Washington scored a Best Actor nod, the living movie legend has over 30 years of show business under his belt. His boyish look, though, hardly reveals that, much less his age of 58. While Hollywood starlets perfect their skincare regimen to keep them looking young, men opt for eating well and exercise, says Dr. Frank. That doesn't mean Washington doesn't turn to products to protect his famous face. Glycolic acid and retinol are most likely found in his anti-aging go-to items, says Dr. Tanzi. Dr. Goldenberg also thinks Washington owes thanks to "genetics, natural skin oiliness and sun protection."