Q I love how eyeliner makes my eyes pop, but is it too heavy for warmer weather?

A "Not if you pick the right colors!" says NYC-based makeup artist Lisa Pentangelo. Swap dark browns, grays and blacks for plums, navies or forest greens, which will give you the definition you're looking for, minus the harshness and heaviness. Just keep it simple and apply along the top and/or bottom lash line for the most natural-looking effect!

Expert Tip:

Prep eyes with primer. This keeps liner vibrant and prevents makeup meltdowns.

Q Lately, my curly hair is very dry and brittle. I condition twice every time I shower but it still doesn't seem to help. What should I do?

A Only condition hair once. Conditioning more often can lead to product buildup, which will weigh hair down, making it drier and coarser! "To restore tresses, use a pure jojoba oil mask once a week," says NYC-based hairstylist Rita Ragone. "It works to combat dryness and help rejuvenate hair without leaving a greasy, oily residue." Massage a dime-sized amount onto hair and let it sit for 10 minutes before rinsing.

Q Should I be switching my moisturizer for summer?

A "I recommend switching to less greasy products once the weather gets warmer," says NYC-based dermatologist Dr. Gary Goldenberg. Thicker moisturizers are great during winter, when skin is prone to dryness, but the heat and humidity of summer actually helps skin produce more sebum, which naturally hydrates skin. A lightweight, oil-free moisturizer with SPF will do the trick!
